ultimately, the effort will be under the authority of a united nations resolution and carried out by the international organization responsible for the international chemical weapons ban.

The treatment of mice with aminoguanidine, a specific inos inhibitor, alleviated the acidic polysaccharide-induced suppression of antibody response to sheep red blood cells.